The 10 Tools

1

ChatGPT / Claude

AI assistants that help you write emails, replies, social captions, and business documents in minutes instead of hours. Useful for almost any business, from drafting a client proposal to brainstorming marketing ideas.

2

Canva Magic Design

Canva's built-in AI turns a short description into ready-to-use social media posts, flyers and ads. It's the fastest way for a small team to produce professional-looking visuals without a designer on staff.

3

WhatsApp Business + AI Chatbot

An AI chatbot connected to WhatsApp Business can answer common customer questions, share pricing, and collect leads 24 hours a day — even when your team is offline.

4

Zapier / Make

These tools connect the apps you already use (forms, email, spreadsheets, CRMs) so information moves between them automatically, without anyone copying and pasting data by hand.

5

Notion AI

Notion's AI features summarize long notes, draft documents, and help organize business knowledge so your team spends less time hunting for information.

6

Google Analytics with AI Insights

Modern analytics tools flag unusual changes in your website traffic automatically, so you find out what's working (or not) without digging through charts every day.

7

Calendly (AI Scheduling)

Automated scheduling lets customers book a call or consultation directly into your calendar, cutting out the back-and-forth of finding a time that works.

8

Grammarly

An AI writing assistant that checks tone, clarity and grammar in emails, proposals and website copy — helping every message look professional before it's sent.

9

AI Transcription Tools (e.g. Otter.ai)

These tools automatically transcribe calls and meetings into text, so nothing important gets forgotten and notes can be shared with the whole team.

10

Meta Advantage+ / Google Performance Max

AI-powered ad tools from Meta and Google automatically test and optimize ad targeting and budget, helping small businesses get better results from advertising without needing a full-time media buyer.
